Mid-October 2020 Market Highlights and FFTC Investment Pool Performance

Global equity markets have rebounded during the first two weeks of October, reversing a pull back in September that was led by energy and technology sectors. As measured by MSCI ACWI, global equity markets were up 3.0% MTD. The U.S. equity market as represented by the S&P 500 was up 3.7% MTD. As previously noted, the Federal Reserve’s current monetary policy to keep interest rates low has resulted in very low yields for short-term investments. As such, FFTC’s Liquid Reserves, a money market fund, and our Low Duration Fixed Income investment pools both realized returns after investment-related fees of zero MTD but remain positive for the YTD.

Below is a summary of the major market indices as of October 15, 2020:
