

Andrea Phelps

Senior Vice President, Information Technology

Andrea Phelps serves as Senior Vice President of Information Technology. In her role, Andrea supports our business team by ensuring they have the tools available to perform their jobs. This includes both software solutions as well as overseeing the discipline of business process management. She is the first point of contact with many of the Foundation's technology vendors for support of existing solutions as well as investigating software solutions that will enhance the day-to-day to experience of our team.

Andrea has been with the Foundation for more than 20 years and has held a variety of roles. Prior to serving as the Business Liaison, Andrea most recently served as Vice President, Donor Relations for more than 10 years working with team members and clients to develop frontline support and develop practices to deliver the highest level of donor and client support.

She also serves as the business team lead on the core systems enhancement project – channeling her expertise to guiding an internal team dedicated to optimizing the advancement of our core systems – overseeing the complete solution, managing permissions, generating reports and directing both the development of business processes and the creation of work instructions.

Andrea received her B.A. in Language & World Business from the University of Tennessee and an MBA from the University of South Carolina, Darla Moore School of Business.
